LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 17, 1853.

NO. 141.

Day Dispatches.

(By the Western Associated Press.)

THE TURF.

The Best Time and Record Made in Brooklyn.

Keene's Golding Frank, and Barnaby's Golding Winship Make a Mile in 2:08 1/2 and 2:10 1/4 at Prospect Park.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—At Prospect Park, J. B. Barnaby & Co.'s golding, Frank, and Barnaby's Golding Winship, traveled against J. Keene's golding, Frank, and running mate, J. O. N. There were only two heats, Frank winning the first by a head, and Winship the second. The time of the best on record, 2:08 1/2, 2:10 1/4.

Striking Printers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Mail and Express and Post refused to give their compensation 40 cents per thousand, instead of 35 as at present and the Union members struck. These papers published as usual now. The Graphite refused to increase and the men continue to work. The other evening papers conceded the demanded wage.

Action of the Convention of Stockmen.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The National Convention of Stockmen this morning decided to appoint a committee of one from each State, which is to memorialize Congress and show the loss and damage to the country resulting from the legislation against the Union members and suggest such legislation as may tend to the removal of this prejudice. The convention, it is stated, has been adjourned to the 1st of December, when the stockmen of the country will be gathered at the city.

Two Men Murdered at a North Carolina Wedding.

Raleigh, Nov. 16.—At a wedding in Carrickwood, North Carolina, at the supper-table, two or three, if not the several guests participated. Six shots were fired in one minute, clearing the room. The groom's best man was killed and another groomsmen was wounded. The bride was removed to an upper room, and the young couple sat up all night with the disabled man.

A disastrous Fire in the Old Dominion.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 16.—A fire broke out yesterday in the freight warehouse of the Norfolk and Western railroad department, rapidly extended to a large portion of the building, 7,000 feet of cotton, fifty carloads of lumber, twelve cars and the wharves of miscellaneous freight. The wharves of the company were badly damaged. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Protest of the Court of Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Garrison resumed his testimony in the Protos Court of Inquiry today. He never saw the instructions given to Captain Parker of the U.S. Revenue, to return to St. John's. His own instructions ordered him to the way up, and he obeyed them. He had no hand in the movement to meet the Yantic and find some way of returning to help Greely.

Jay Gould and Company.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16.—Jay Gould arrived from the East at 2:30 p.m., accompanied by J. L. Hopkins, R. S. Hayes, H. M. Hoxie and L. Lincoln, and their agent. They came to meet the Greelys this afternoon for Decatur and Chicago.

Death of Admiral Trenchard.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—It is reported that Admiral Trenchard died to-night.

Pressing the Porte.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—General Wallace, United States Minister, supported by the British Ambassador, energetically pressed the Porte for the punishment of the men who recently attacked two American citizens in Asia Minor.

** THE PACIFIC COAST.

Woman Suffrage Assured in Washington Territory.

OLYMPIA, W. T., Nov. 16.—A bill to strike out the word "male" from all the election laws, passed the Council, a vote of 50 to 5, and in the lower house, several weeks ago by a large majority. There is no doubt that Gov. Newell will sign the bill, as he is an ardent advocate of woman's suffrage.

FIGHTING THE EVIL.

At Cleveland, Ohio, a secret organization has been formed, having for its object the suppression of polygamy.

They have issued a circular to the public requesting that other communities take up the work and form branch organizations, and that every city, town and hamlet in this broad domain unite in deluging Congress with petitions for the suppression of this monstrosity which a lax system of enforcing our laws has allowed to grow to gigantic proportions.

It is a difficult matter to explain how a respectable body of men, who assume to direct the machinery of this government, who are a part of the people and who are supposed to have some interest in conducting it properly, can sit supinely and see the monster, reeking with slime, contaminating everything it touches as it drags its hideous carcass over some of the best and dearest of our institutions. The circular re-

-cites: "The time has come when action is necessary. The honor and fair name of this nation are in danger. Licentiousness and a total disregard of the laws of the land are the tools of an disgrace among all the people of the earth, as rope, as in the days of slavery, is calling upon us in the name of decency to cleanse ourselves of a species of moral corruption, which in foulness has been surpassing the greatest crimes of man."

Charles E. Lovell has been elected president of the Iron Steamboat Company and Samuel Carpenter, the general Eastern passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has been chosen vice-president in place of Rufus Hatch.

M. E. Bell, the new Supervising Architect of the Treasury department, was born in Chester County (Pa.), and now lives with his wife and five children, in modest style, in Des Moines, Iowa, and is an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin is the only distinguished personage who has made a practice through life of never wearing an over-coat. The late Cannon Bladon, whose near approach to centenarianism will be remembered, attributed his long years and good health to the same eccentricity.

Major Low, of Brooklyn, is a Republican, but has been twice elected Mayor in that strong Democratic town. He is a relative of the Messrs. William and John B. Niles, of this city.

The Hon. James G. Blaine has become a grandfather. The interesting event occurred at the home of Mrs. Col. Copper, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., last Wednesday, to whom a son was born.

Patrick O'Brien, the Irish giant, seven feet eleven high, weighing 360 pounds, and Miss Anna Duez, the German giantess, seven feet ten inches high, weighing 340 pounds, now on exhibition in the 20th proximo. This is said to be a case of love at first sight, neither party having seen the other previous to their engagement there last week.

CURRENT NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A wise and prudent man landed in New York the other day, with a coffin he had made for himself in the old country.

Eighty thousand children in the north of England form the "Disey bird society." They are pledged to protect birds, never to destroy a nest, and to feed birds in winter.

The New Orleans Picayune thinks "Good common sense is better than a college education." Of course it is, and a good deal rarer and much harder to get.

The New York Tribune thinks that the climate of San Francisco, which is bathed perennially in sea breezes and sea fog laden with iodine and ozone, has a most beneficial effect upon women, and causes them to acquire that roundness of physical contours which is so much appreciated with English and Irish women.

The Boston Globe calls attention to the present as the time when the affectionate woman dips up the ten cent geranium and carries it into the house, that she may waste a ton of coal keeping it warm during the winter.

A French paper advises that letters be addressed and stamped on the side where the envelope is sealed, to defeat openers who have learned how to use a tea-kettle.

Democratic roosters are not doing much crowing over the result of the late elections. They have found out that the Republican eagle is still spreading his wings over this country.

Pittsburg men have just started a brace of quail every day for twenty days on a wager of $100. He had a terrible time, managed to pull through, and says he will never attempt anything like it again.

A letter was recently received at the White House from a citizen in Somers, Kan. This citizen humbly petitioned to have the name of the place changed to Handsping. The reason he gave was, "there are several men in town who can turn handspins, but one who can turn a somerset."

Pittsburg men have just started a brace of quail every day for twenty days on a wager of $100. He had a terrible time, managed to pull through, and says he will never attempt anything like it again.

GOVERNOR BUTLER—strabismic Ben—says he cannot retire to private life now with the labor question in its present state and the monopolies grasping at the throat of the people. Poor Ben. Sometimes men have the good sense to retire and sometimes they are forced to be head of the household.

A SALOON-KEEPER of Oberlin, Ohio, has sued Mr. Brand a Congregational minister of that place, for $50,000 damages to his alleged character, through utterances of the latter from his pulpit. The saloonist evidently has a desire to pluck that Brand and burn him up.

A LITTLE California redwood board, four feet four inches wide and fourteen feet long, is exciting the wonder of Chicago lumbermen.

BANANA GROWING.

Mr. S. Strohm has succeeded in growing bananas at his place on the hills, which for flavor will compare very favorably with the imported article. The bunches are not so large and do not contain so many specimens, but this may be accounted for by the conditions under which they were grown. There have been specimens of the fruit grown in this valley before, but since the cold weather of a few winters past it has been thought that bananas were too tender to stand this climate. Mr. Strohm's fruit proves that there are locations where it might pay to engage in the cultivation of this delicious fruit. The plants blossomed last fall, and when the fruit was no larger than a man's finger a severe frost killed all the great leaves and at the time it was supposed the fruit was also killed, but it continued to grow and with warmth expanded to maturity and ripened deliciously. There can be little doubt that some of our ranchmen who have places up among the foothills where frosts do not come might inaugurate a very profitable industry, as the imported bananas bring very high prices. The plant is a strong, thrifty grower and requires but little attention other than plenty of water.

DECEMBER and May come together at Blithwood, South Carolina, the other day, when an old gentleman reported to be 116 years of age wedded Mrs. Martha Wilson, a buxom widow of 27. The happy young couple started for New York on a bridal tour at the conclusion of the marriage ceremony.

ZACH MONTGOMERY is running his "poisoned fountain" at Santa Clara. He lectured at the Santa Clara college on Wednesday evening.

The Kansas City Journal predicts that the Democratic rooster crop will be short next year. This is a bad season for the hatching.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Josiah Miller is about twenty years older than his stepfather.

The youngest grandfather on record lives in Trinidad, Texas. His name is Reese Butler, and he is thirty years old.

Geo. Gould is reported as saying that he is worth a million, but expects to wake up some morning and find that the "old man" has taken it away from him.

Mr. Blaine says he never was in better health than now; he is seldom out of bed at 10:30 p.m., or in bed at 8 a.m., and he has grown many years younger in appearance since he laid aside the cares and anxieties of public life.

Charles E. Lovell has been elected president of the Iron Steamboat Company and Samuel Carpenter, the general Eastern passenger agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has been chosen vice-president in place of Rufus Hatch.

M. E. Bell, the new Supervising Architect of the Treasury department, was born in Chester County (Pa.), and now lives with his wife and five children, in modest style, in Des Moines, Iowa, and is an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

[This is the Trans-Mississippi Public Forum upon which all who have anything pertinent and interesting to say, on topics of current interest, may stand and give their personal opinions to the public, the writers being responsible for their own sentiments. Correspondents are politely urged to be clear, concise, and to the point; to write plainly, and upon omitted of the sheet only.]

The Non-Irrigable Lands.

To the Editor of the Times—Sir: Let no speculator pick up his ears to listen to tales of soft things in store, as this article does not concern him. Neither are barley and wheat raisers much interested in this "layton" for most of the land treated of herein, although adapted to the growth of grain, is yet in a condition not to tempt the skinners of soul. Only those sturdy sons and daughters of man that are willing to have a hard time of it, will be interested in what I am about to place on paper. The slant of the sun is an important factor in values of soil. North slopes are in this locality much more valuable than south slopes, from the fact that most things can be grown on them without irrigation. This fact has been lost sight of by locators, but has been known to close observers for years. The writer has been experimenting on northern slopes for thirty years, and has proven their capacity to produce more fruit than southern slopes, any other. Or more correctly, a better variety of fruit than any others, especially apples and all other fruit grown in this latitude. The soil is a clay loam, and adapted to irrigation. It has a tendency to hold water, and is the best for irrigation. There is no possibility of over-production of fruit. Now, the very best lands should be left to the producer of the most desirable fruits, as yet unripe, and, for the most part, owned by the public or the railroad companies. Even the lands of the railroads (and the state) and the state (and mountains) have a north slope. Some of it is irrigated, but not well suited to be irrigated, and not well suited to be utilized eventually, with small exceptions.

In all countries that have as little rain as we do, the economy of the country is determined by the north slope.

The north slopes of northern California are the most irrigable, and the most desirable for irrigation, as yet unripe, and, for the most part, owned by the public or the railroad companies. Even the lands of the railroads (and the state) and the state (and mountains) have a north slope. Some of it is irrigated, but not well suited to be irrigated, and not well suited to be utilized eventually, with small exceptions.

Then the nut-bearing trees are all adapted to the north slopes. When I have considered these latter should never be left out. Also the fact that nuts can be had for cents and years without loss, and their availability for plant life, on the soil, the added thickness at the base of the embankment make a sponge of storage for moisture, when the rains come, so that the trees will find it. I have come to look at these live things as personalities and talk of them as having a life of their own, and of intelligence for the connecting life between plant life and that of the several animals is more remarkable. My thoughts are to make the most of them in their struggles to survive and be happy. And it is no stretch of fancy to listen to their laughter and smile with their stories. These northern slopes are the best, and, out to southern exposures, so that any climate is available in which to live. The north slopes are the best, and, out to the day and night here makes the selection of building sites a great item. This must be done with judgment, or disastrous consequences will follow. Fewer northern exposures are proper for dwellings of man or beast north of the equator.

F. M. SHAW
Cahuenga Mountains, Nov. 15, 1883.

Business and Rents.

To the Editor of the Times—Sir: I will answer "William C. Owen" regarding the renting of houses. He did not properly quote my words. What I did say and means was that Los Angeles, to which we have come, are not equal to other cities. He is mistaken when he says that I consider literature of no importance so long as a point is gained. If he reads my article carefully he will find that I consider literature as having the most to do with the complaints against us. We are not equal to other cities, we were not properly serious. In the very paper he writes an item happens to appear saying that Los Angeles has more paper than most any city of the country. When I said that the simple question for would-be renters to consider is "Is it safe to rent?" he did not mean new homes, but still have the free use of their own actions as their forefathers had. But I will add, that we have invested in houses, and will bring them to market more easily in Galveston, Texas, a place coming favorably with Los Angeles, $2,000 to $3,000 will bring a good amount.

Los Angeles, Nov. 16, 1883.

FREEDOM.

First Ward State.

To the Editor of the Times—Sir: As the festive day for the chronic ward politics is nearing us, not a few candidates are willing to be laid upon the sacred altar of the City Council. The First Ward, first, but not last in the field, has been heard from on the evening of the 12th, at the First Ward Hall, together with a dozen other men taking the responsibility of calling a dozen voters together, tax-payers and non-tax-payers, and the like. The First Ward is the home of a hard man who really has no particular interest in city reality? There is an ax or some thing that must be dealt with. The First Ward, like the others, is not equal to other cities. Desire no politics in the selection of their candidates. Give us good, honest Councilmen—more honest. The First Ward has issued a call for next Wednesday evening, 21st inst., at the west end of the river bridge, S. P. R. R., to meet.
